

Inflation expands economy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U. S. economy expanded by $30.3 billion in the first three months of 1972, the Commerce Department said today, but more than half the increase was caused by inflation.

The government estimated that gross national product (GNP) in the first quarter grew 11.8 per cent, up sharply from the growth of 7.6 per cent in the last three months of 1971.

When adjusted for price increases, however, the economy's output advanced only 5.3 per cent, less rapid than the 5.8 per cent growth rate of the fourth quarter.

The difference was inflation.

As measured by the "GNP deflator," prices rose 6.2 per cent between January and March, compared to only 1.7 per cent in the October-December period.

The report, which will be revised later as more statistics become available, was bound to raise questions about the effectiveness of the administration's price-control policy.

In a separate report, the department said personal income grew $3.5 billion in March. And it drastically revised the February figures, saying huge retroactive salary increases approved by the Pay Board meant that personal income rose $9 billion in February, not $5 billion as originally reported.

The $30.3 billion increase in first-quarter GNP — the dollar value of all private and governmental output of goods and services — grew at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $1,103.2 billion ($1.1 trillion). The figures will be revised later as more statistics are available.

The pace of consumer spending also rose by $13 billion, compared with $8.3 billion in the fourth quarter. The administration has been hoping that consumers would spend more and give the economy a push.

Fixed investment rose $1.1 billion, double the fourth quarter rise and government spending increased $5 billion, compared to a $2.7 billion fourth quarter increase.

President sets Viet war policy address

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon will go on nationwide radio and television some time next week to discuss further Vietnam troop withdrawals and the recent escalation of the war, it was learned today.

Sources close to the President said the speech would come after he studies a report by Brig. Gen. Alexander N. Haig, deputy to presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger, who returns in a few days from a fact-finding trip to Vietnam.

Nixon said last Jan. 13 that the U.S. troop ceiling would fall to 69,000 by May 1. Despite the recent North Vietnamese offensive and a vast step-up in American bombing activity in both North and South Vietnam, officials have stressed that the 69,000-man goal would be reached and that the pullout program would not be halted.

However, Nixon apparently has not made a decision on the next phase of withdrawals and will not until he gets an analysis from Haig.

The presidentially ordered bombing last weekend of both

Haiphong and Hanoi stirred the most vigorous debate in months in Congress about the war, and Secretary of State William P. Rogers made his second trip to Capitol Hill in three days today.

Rogers told reporters that there had been no evidence so far that bombing would "adversely affect" Nixon's plans to visit Moscow next month.

Rogers denied that the administration had been particularly emphasizing the substantial Soviet support in the form of heavy weapons to the Communist offensive.

On the Senate floor, Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., his voice cracking with emotion, said he hoped American bombs hit all the Soviet ships that were in Haiphong harbor last weekend because "they've got no business being there."

Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., argued that the bombing amounted to "raw retaliation." He added: "The President's policy has been threatened and there is nothing more vengeful than the wounded pride of a king."

Of the Haiphong port bombing in which Moscow claims four Soviet ships were damaged — Goldwater declared: "I say if we hit a Russian ship in Haiphong, that's too damned bad. I hope we hit them all. They've got no business being there."

Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., said the majority of Americans supports Nixon's "current course." They disagree, he said, with those who would urge us to use the occasion of a naked invasion of South Vietnam as a suitable time to turn our backs on our allies and to expose our withdrawing troops to danger.

Rogers met privately with House members of both parties. He testified Monday on the Senate side, and Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird appeared Tuesday, both stressing that Nixon would use whatever military power he deemed necessary to try to stop the North Vietnamese offensive in South Vietnam.

The White House has referred up to now to Rogers' and Laird's statements when asked about Nixon's reasons for the heavy U.S. bombing and presidential views of the escalated war.

Russia trip plans valid

LONDON (UPI) — Communist diplomats said today the Moscow summit between Kremlin leaders and President Nixon will take place as scheduled May 22, barring only new major crisis developments.

There are more and wider international issues of world-wide importance to be discussed between the leaders of the superpowers than merely the Vietnam problem," they said.

Therefore, the summit will go ahead despite clouds caused by the Vietnam escalation and the latest tension between Moscow and Washington.

The diplomats did not minimize the impact of the Vietnam fighting and of American bombing of the North, but evidently felt that the new danger signals should, if anything, heighten the importance and urgency of a top level meeting between Soviet and American leaders.

The Kremlin leadership was said to be immersed in an intensive policy review in preparation for Nixon's visit, with apparent signs of a hardening of Moscow's stand.

The diplomats suggested that Moscow is not likely to make Nixon's Vietnam problem any easier. There appeared little chance of outright Soviet intervention or mediation in the Vietnam conflict.

But they said much will depend on what happens in the next few weeks. The Russians would not stand for any outright military threat to North Vietnam.

Nor would they agree to cut arms supplies which largely made the current Communist offensive possible. By playing the role of chief supporter of Hanoi, the Soviets are pursuing the wider aim of increasing their influence in Asia at China's expense.

Viet Reds open drives

SAIGON (UPI) — The Communists increased their pressure on Saigon today with a renewed assault on An Loc, 50 miles to the north, and attacks at three points on the city's outer defenses. They also scored a major victory in the coastal highlands region where they overran a district town.

Phnom Penh dispatches said the Communists were pressing a major offensive in Cambodia to open an invasion route along Highway 1 into South Vietnam. Fighting also blazed up in Laos, and government spokesmen in Vietnam told of heavy fighting in the south on a supply route into Cambodia.

U.S. fighter-bombers were reported back in action in force over North Vietnam and Hanoi. Radio said two of them were shot down today 155 miles north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ). It made no mention of the fate of the pilots. A Hanoi communique reported raids

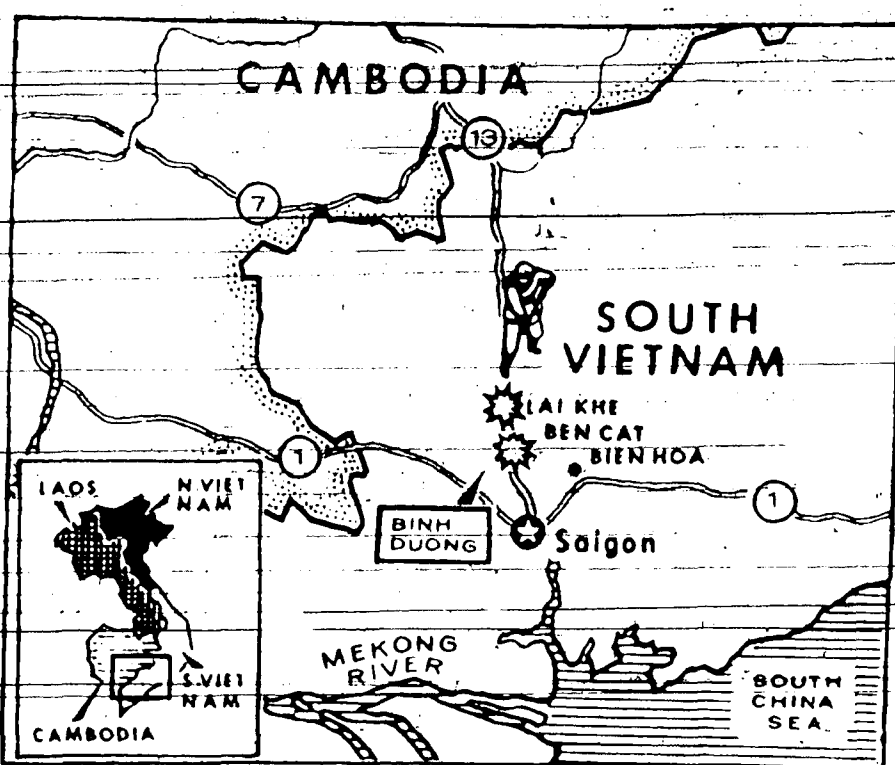

Monday and Tuesday within 80 miles of Hanoi.

A small firefright blazed up 13 miles south of Saigon and there were major attacks along Highway 13 barely 27 miles north of Saigon on the road to An Loc. The Communists attacked Dau Tieng, 40 miles northwest of Saigon, and it appeared that town would fall because it has been stripped of its defenders.

With the Communists north-west of Saigon equipped with tanks, rockets and artillery, the government set on a tank unit at the Saigon waterworks six miles north of the capital for the first time in three years. However military officers insisted there was no threat to Saigon itself.

Field reports said about 15 armored cars with a command post were installed at the strategic Highway 1 and Highway 13 crossroads near the waterworks, indicating the troops were about to dig in for a long stay.

Cassia's schools closed for talks

BURLEY — Cassia County schools were closed today as teachers caucused to discuss deadlocked contract negotiations.

Both teachers and school administrators reported that teacher contract negotiations are deadlocked.

The school closure was unprecedented in the Magic Valley.

Teachers termed their meetings today "educational emphasis day," and were quick to say that their meetings did not constitute a strike.

Harold Blauer, Cassia schools superintendent, said the district's school calendar provides one extra day for a "professional holiday," as he termed the day's events.

Blauer said the administration had "allowed" the day, but had not given it "full approval."

However, when Clyde Wardle, president of the Idaho Education Association, requested the holiday, he said, he was refused by Blauer.

He said, Blauer said the teachers would have to indicate their support of the proposal by a majority vote.

Meeting last week, the teachers voted to call the holiday in order to consider methods of negotiation.

A number of spokesmen from the IEA and the National Education Association were scheduled to address teachers today in the Burley High School.

Wardle said the teachers would also form group discussions on the points of dispute, drafting resolutions and proposals for presentation during negotiation sessions.

The next meeting between board members and faculty negotiations is scheduled for Saturday night, Blauer said.

Negotiations between the teachers and administration were deadlocked over a number of disputed points, Blauer said.

He said the administration agrees that certain areas are open to negotiation including salary, fringe benefits and grievance procedures.

However, Blauer said, teachers have sought negotiations in other areas such as curriculum development, text book selection, teaching conditions, and personnel matters, which he said "must be the exclusive responsibility of the administration."

All 'go' for Apollo lunar mission

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — Apollo 16's astronauts unveiled a $17-million set of mapping sensors and sped faster and faster toward moon orbit today and a landing in the mountainous lunar highlands Thursday.

Their mission settled down to smooth routine and all systems were "go" for the critical braking maneuver into lunar orbit at 3:23 p.m. EST.

Mission commander John W. Young, making his second moonflight, and space newcomers Thomas K. Mattingly and Charles M. Duke prepared for six days of lunar exploration by jettisoning a 5 by 9 1/2 foot aluminum panel covering the service module's orbital reconnaissance instruments.

The panel was severed from the spacecraft by a string of explosives triggered at 10:53 a.m. EST. The cover floated away, 13,000 miles above the moon.

"There it goes," said Young. "That was a pretty good bang. We can watch it spinning around out the window and it's quite a sight. Every time it comes around it really flashes."

Exposed to space for the first time were two mapping cameras containing thousands of feet of film, a laser altimeter and three radiation sensors designed to record X-rays, gamma rays and alpha particles reflected from the moon's surface to tell scientists the makeup of the rocks there.

Mattingly will carry out the orbital mapping while Young and Duke spend three days exploring a volcanic plateau between Stone Mountain and the Smokies in the middle of the moon's highlands. As seen from Earth, their landing site is on the lower right side of the moon.

The most serious problem of the flight so far — trouble with the spacecraft guidance system — was downgraded to nothing more than a nuisance. The system worked so well today that Mattingly called it "mighty super."

The astronauts awoke about 7 a.m. without a call from the ground and reported everything was normal aboard the spaceship Casper. They ate breakfast while listening to music played by an onboard tape machine.

The astronauts were told that their course was so good that flight director Philip Shaffer had canceled the last course correction scheduled before Apollo 16 reached the moon.

Mattingly good-naturedly reported that the spacemen had some trouble Tuesday eating from a new snaptop can of peaches, being tested for the Skylab space station.

"When you open that can, you get them all at once," Mattingly said. "You'll be happy to know we shared our peaches with Casper. He ate as much as we did."

"There's still a lot of peach on Casper's face," Young said. This was the busiest day for the trio since Sunday's launch, the maneuvers starting with jettisoning of a mapping camera panel and winding up with a power dive to within 12 miles of the moon at about 7:30 p.m. EST.

On this next-to-last mission in the moonflight series, the 51-ton Apollo 16 spaceship came under the moon's gravitational pull at 12:13 a.m. EST on the last leg of its journey from Cape Kennedy, Fla.

Ulster violence growing

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — The Irish Republican Army threatened today to escalate its fight against British rule following the funeral of an IRA leader killed by a British patrol.

"The death of Joseph McCann has not been in vain, for it has strengthened the determination of republicans to continue and escalate their political activities until all their demands are met," an IRA spokesman said.

New violence followed the funeral of McCann Tuesday. An IRA car bomb exploded in Belfast, injuring a policeman and a pedestrian, a British army spokesman said.

In the town of Newtownstewart a 20-to 30-pound bomb planted in a car exploded, damaging 20 houses, an army spokesman said.

IRA guerrillas opened fire on British patrols in Belfast and Londonderry and one gunman was hit, the spokesman said.

The Roman Catholic civil rights movement joined the IRA in condemning McCann's death as "cold-blooded murder."

He was shot to death Saturday when he was recognized despite a disguise and ordered to halt. He fled and was shot.

Club suit ruled out

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a setback for environmentalists, the Supreme Court by a narrow 4-3 vote barred the Sierra Club today from suing to stop a $35 million development in California's mineral King Valley by the Walt Disney organization.

The majority opinion, written by Justice Potter Stewart, means the conservationist organization may not proceed in federal district court in San Francisco, under the Administrative Procedure Act, to litigate claims that the secretaries of Agriculture and Interior violated federal law and regulations in allowing the vast commercial venture in the Sierra Nevada Mountains.

Dole upholds Nixon moves

By United Press International
Republican National Chairman Robert Dole described as "glib" and "opportunistic" today Democratic presidential candidates who have criticized President Nixon's response to the North Vietnamese offensive in Indochina.

Dole said the buildup of U.S. air and naval power in the war zone and the bombing of North Vietnam constituted "a reasonable response to two weeks of open aggression by the North Vietnamese."

"The North Vietnamese are embarked on a last-ditch attempt to convince the American people to give them at the conference table what they cannot win on the battlefield or in the hearts and minds of the Vietnamese people," Dole said. Democratic candidates who have criticized Nixon's moves were joined Tuesday by Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., who in the past opposed congressional attempts to dictate an end to American participation in the war.

Former Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota said in a speech prepared for delivery to the City Club of Cleveland today that the fact that there are 25 million poor and 25 million people on relief "indicates that the system is not working." He said existing work should be distributed among available workers by shortening the working year through longer vacations for employees.

"My client, Mr. Flanigan, will answer only questions we feel relevant to the case"

McGovern concentrates on Pennsylvania votes

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Confident of winning Massachusetts, Sen. George S. McGovern has shifted campaign strategy to devote more time for the Pennsylvania primary where he hopes a late surge could pay off in a fat share of the popular vote and a large bloc of delegates to the Democratic national convention.

Faced with two primaries April 25, McGovern originally decided to concentrate his efforts and resources in Massachusetts, 102 delegate votes with only three campaign ventures into Pennsylvania, where 137 delegates will be elected next Tuesday.

But with a win seemingly assured in Massachusetts and no other candidate actively campaigning there, the South Dakota senator has added two, possibly three days of campaigning in Pennsylvania.

He scheduled most of today in the western part of the state and said he would return Monday, the day before the election, for more campaigning. His state advisors hope to convince McGovern to also slip into the Philadelphia area Saturday.

Talking to reporters at a construction site after climbing to shake every hand he could reach, McGovern said Tuesday, "We're going to win in Massachusetts," and added, "We're going to get a good, respectable share of delegates in Pennsylvania."

Normally accurate in his predictions, McGovern declined

TF police cars hit

Police said when they came out of the Holiday Inn building, they discovered the glass cover of a red emergency light on one of the vehicles was broken and the cover of the blue light on the other had been damaged.

TF bankruptcy probe asked by Gem official

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho Commissioner of Agriculture Oscar C. Arstein has requested Atty. Gen. Anthony Park to investigate the bankruptcy of a Twin Falls cattle buyer.

"Although the Idaho Department of Agriculture does not directly regulate cattle buyers, I have requested that the attorney general begin a thorough investigation of the causes behind the bankruptcy of Robert L. Benefiel, a Twin Falls cattle buyer," Arstein said.

The commissioner of agriculture said the cattle trading industry in seven Idaho communities may have been adversely affected and stressed action to restore confidence in the Idaho cattle market.

"This situation has not only hurt the yards involved," Arstein said, "it has financially affected individual Idaho cattlemen and has injured the reputation of the entire Idaho cattle industry."

Park said his office will work in cooperation with the appropriate federal agency on the case, which has been reported to be one of the largest single such losses in the livestock trading industry ever sustained in the west.

"I have assured the commissioner of agriculture," Park said, "that the attorney general's office will render the fullest cooperation in this investigation, and I have assigned Richard Shaw, chief investigator, to personally conduct the inquiry."

TWIN FALLS — A Job Fair for ex-servicemen and women will be Thursday from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. at the American Legion Hall, 310 Second St. E.

The Job Fair is sponsored by the American Legion, Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce and the Department of Employment. It will offer veterans a chance to meet with employers for counseling on job opportunities in the Magic Valley area.

The fair is part of Idaho's participation in a national effort to widen job and training opportunities for the more than one million servicemen who will complete their military obligations in the next 12 months.

There are about 600 veterans in Magic Valley registered with the Department of Employment, according to John F. Leinen, area manager. He said veterans are being notified of the Job Fair by the Department of Employment.

A Little Late

The bombing of the Haiphong area is just a little late. It should have happened years ago — probably during the Johnson administration. Had it happened at that time there would have been hundreds of American troops, now dead, still alive.

Although this intensive bombing of the area is late, it is justified. The elimination of a supply area is a way — probably one of the most important ways — to gain a victory. The step is a dangerous one. It will arouse the ire of China and Russia. But that is a calculated risk which must be taken.

In this country the political surface has been stirred. So what? Some of the statements attributed to candidates are such that it would appear they must be rooting for the enemy. They hope the stepped up air war will aid their cause, will swing votes their way.

The bombing of Haiphong and Hanoi is justified. The end result will be to shorten the war. The action is a little late — but better late than never.

Energy Crisis

While the Alaskan pipeline to make available its vast oil reserves is bogged down in needless controversy, a government expert on Russia's oil development says that pipeline construction in Siberia is moving ahead at a "feverish" pace.

Robert E. Ebel of the Interior Department, addressing the American Petroleum Institute Pipeline Conference in Dallas, said that due to uncertainties about the projected Alaska pipeline, "it is easier to make production predictions for West Siberia than it is for Alaska."

From 1966 through 1968 Ebel said Alaska oil production kept pace with West Siberia but has fallen steadily behind since then as production "marked time for want of an outlet."

Ebel predicted the Russians in the next five years will lay 18,600 miles of gas pipelines at a cost of $7.4 billion and 16,700 miles of crude oil and product lines at a cost of $4.7 billion.

In Washington, Dr. Ralph E. Lapp, a Nobel Prize physicist, warned that the energy crisis in the United States is so great that by 1985 the public may be begging utilities to build nuclear plants instead of condemning them as "polluters."

"We are using up our energy at a fantastic rate," he said.

Extremists who oppose any growth seemingly are willing to risk brownouts, even blackouts, to prevent damage to the frozen wastes of Alaska despite every assurance of adequate protective measures.

Thornton F. Bradshaw, President of Atlantic Richfield Company, told the Senate Interior Committee most Americans will not realize they face an energy crisis "until they go to a light switch, turn it on and nothing happens."

In this election year, action on the Alaska pipeline is uncertain and unlikely, despite the obvious need.

Thousands of jobs are being denied by inaction and the public runs the risk of disabling power shortages.

Action is needed and needed now.

WASHINGTON — Whether deliberate or not, Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, did not indicate. But the "trap" was laid, and Rep. James McClure, R-Ist, bit hard on the "bait."

McClure had finished testifying before the Senate Interior's subcommittee on parks and recreation in favor of the recently-passed House bill creating a Sawtooth Recreation Area. The Payette Republican, had, however, expressed disagreement with some portions of the House bill and a preference for certain improving amendments offered by Church to the Senate bill.

Following a mutual "back-patting," Idaho's senior senator zeroed in on the one area he thought he and McClure might be in disagreement: The merits of a five-year moratorium on future mineral entries in the White Clouds versus a permanent moratorium.

After a spirited exchange of differences, Church turned to committee chairman Sen. Alan Bible, D-NeV., and placed in the record the concluding abstract of a preliminary report by an environmental task force which had studied the advisability of mining molybdenum in the White Clouds. Church also placed an editorial in the record supporting the preliminary report and the reaction of Gov. Cecil Andrus, D-Idaho.

The task force study had tentatively concluded molybdenum was in surplus supply and that it would be best to leave the White Clouds in their natural state.

McClure, despite the fact he fully believed the preliminary report had been deliberately leaked to Gov. Andrus' office for patently political purposes, nevertheless did the unpollitic: The aspiring senatorial candidate blasted the report.

Charging the report had problems, McClure told Church there was "no evidence that area cannot be mined without harming the environment."

Added McClure, "I think the task force statement is nothing more than compilation of opinions... there is little if any substantial fact to support the study's conclusions."

Warning to the task, McClure said the report was "not factual," was "opinionated," and "subjective." The Payette Republican told Church and the subcommittee, "I find this study offensive," and further charged such a study was unfairly "playing" with the people's resources. "Even Church appeared to be surprised at the degree of McClure's blast, and sat back without much response. McClure, appearing to suddenly recognize he was well on his way to inheriting the White Clouds albatross which drug former Gov. Don Samuelson to defeat two years ago, paused to collect the cool he had uncharacteristically blown."

He told Church he would not argue the merits of the study with him, and he acknowledged the unpopularity of the stand he had just taken. His final words on the study pointed out the predominance of "may, might, perhaps, could" in the study, and he concluded "that's a pretty speculative basis."

Having had the night to think over the opening he had provided his primary opponents with, McClure the next morning had a letter ready for distribution to the press and for inclusion in the hearing record. In the letter McClure cited Emmet E. Willard, the Interior Department's northwest representative, as also challenging the validity of the report.

McClure said Willard's comments also underscored the major point he was trying to make regarding the question of permanent vs. temporary withdrawal of the White Clouds from future mineral entry.

The First District congressman had contended in debate with Church that there was no sense in authorizing a study of the mineral potential in the White Clouds and Boulders if congress were to turn around and forever withdraw the area from mineral entry before the study was completed.

Draft Dodgers

WASHINGTON — I note with interest not to say amazement that a group of confused clergymen representing Protestant, Catholic and Jewish denominations has now embarked on an "educational effort" to curry favor for the proposal that draft dodgers and deserters be granted total amnesty.

By total amnesty, the Interreligious Conference on Amnesty means that the forgiveness should be unconditional. In a four-page statement addressed to the "Religious Community of America," there is no mention of any penalties for violating the law of the land. Instead, these possibly well-meaning, bubbleheads depose that "Church support of amnesty is intimately linked to the commitment of securing justice to the human family."

Sponsored by the National Council of Churches of Christ, the group is not to be confused with some splinter outfit. Its leaders include the Rev. Dr. John C. Bennett, president emeritus of the Union Theological Seminary; Rabbi Abraham Heschel of the Jewish Theological Seminary; and Bishop John J. Dougherty of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Newark, N. Y.

Such men might have been expected to talk at least a little sense. But no. They take the view that "it would be bitterly ironic if we were to make peace with the peoples of China and Southeast Asia but persisted in vindictiveness toward those of the young generation who refused to share in the brutalities and destruction of the war." And — Amnesty would "demonstrate that America is still capable of a communal moral act."

Apparently there is no limit to the lunacies of which the total amnesty crowd is capable. They speak of "securing justice," and ignore the plight of American prisoners-of-war. They speak of a "communal moral act," and are blind to the fact that those who ducked their military obligations did so knowingly and willingly and with the immorality of calculated self-seeking.

The "human family" indeed. When the chips were down, the draft dodgers copped out of the family. Now, having rejected their duty to the "human family," they demand its privileges.

What is all this twaddle about the morality and legality of the Vietnam War? Whether the war is immoral is beside the point. It was being fought as a policy of the United States government.

The war may have been undeclared, but there was and is nothing undeclared about the Selective Service Act which says young males may be called to serve if there is a war on. Maybe the draft is immoral, if so, let's repeal it.

Repeal of course, would be viewed in some quarters with great dismay. People who are doves in Vietnam are hawks on England, Israel and Africa. Sen. Teddy Kennedy, a peace man on Vietnam, has been trying to involve the United States in the Irish tragedy. All these folks would protest the abolishment of a statute which some day could force young Americans to fight in wars today's doves would consider "moral."

No act, even of vindictiveness, can resurrect the men who died in Vietnam. But in the "securing justice" department, we can still do something for the POWs. As Rep. John B. Anderson, R-Ill., has proposed, amnesty should not begin until the war has ended — and the POWs repatriated. That would seem to be the least we can do for men who did their duty for the "human family." Anderson, Sen. Robert Taft, R-Ohio, and others also properly insist that amnesty be conditioned on a two-year service requirement.

These are the men who are talking about morality, not the expedient dunces of the Interreligious Conference on Amnesty. They reject the premise that it is permissible and acceptable to break any law one finds personally objectionable. In doing so, they preach scripture to purported guardians of scripture. Use every man after his desert, and who should scape-whipping?

Labor's Aim

BOSTON (NEA) — Responsible sources here say that, in labor's behalf, up to 300,000 pieces of literature attacking Sen. George McGovern's labor record may be distributed to working men in the final days of the Massachusetts presidential campaign.

I was told by one source that these pamphlets would stress the fact that, years ago, McGovern supported the drive for a right-to-work law in his own state of South Dakota, and that he also voted against a bill in Congress to repeal the section of the basic Taft-Hartley labor law which provides the federal loophole for such state laws.

Asked what other items the literature would contain, this source said: "Anything else that reflects on his record."

The purpose of this kind of an undertaking would be clear to all: To stop the surging McGovern, most specifically and immediately in his promising bid for victory in the April 25 Massachusetts primary, but also in his larger quest for the Democratic nomination to be settled in July.

It has been evident for a long time that both organized labor leaders in general and many top regular Democrats oppose McGovern's nomination. Labor sees him as unfriendly and too leftist. For these and other reasons, some party chiefs rate him unelectable.

Even before I learned of the proposed anti-McGovern literature blast, I had been advised by a key Democrat to expect a blocking move from labor's side. I asked McGovern in an interview what effect such an effort would have, and he answered: "It would hurt."

Though he told me he thinks he ought to win this primary more decisively than any he has competed in so far, the senator has said again and again that his prospects here are tied closely to his chances of success in the blue collar neighborhoods in Boston and across this state. Indeed, he sees his whole campaign hinged to a broadening appeal.

Off his reasonable success with blue collar voters in his Wisconsin primary triumph April 4, McGovern is confident he can do it here, too, despite any effort to stop him.

His schedule in the final two weeks of the Massachusetts campaign was deliberately pointed to working class districts in the industrial centers. And the visible evidence one gets from following him through factories and union halls, as I did, suggests he is pulling favorably with these people.

McGovern makes an obvious point: Organized labor's ability to influence its rank and file is at a minimum in primaries, when workers seem to like to vent their grievances. That leaves him especially confident, since 1972 is shaping up as a big year for protest voting, and McGovern and Alabama Gov. George Wallace are widely seen as the protest candidates.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

About Asthma

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is the difference between asthma and emphysema? The symptoms seem similar. But what are the causes and cure?

For years my sleep has been disturbed by excessive mucus, making me wheeze and cough up phlegm. These attacks also occur after strenuous exertion. I have assumed all these years it was asthma and have been taking an advertised remedy that helps, but only temporarily.

I get an annual chest X-ray with the free mobile unit. I drink moderately but have never smoked. Could it be emphysema? — F.C.M.

It might. It might not. Some of the symptoms are similar, other aren't. With either, shortness of breath is a basic problem. But here's the difference: asthma is a spasm of the bronchial tubes. The airway becomes too constricted for air to pass easily into and out of the lungs.

With emphysema, the airways may — and I say MAY — be open enough, but the lungs themselves have lost their elasticity. The countless tiny air sacs, which give the lungs a spongelike quality, have begun to break down. The lungs can't squeeze out as much "used" air, hence can't draw in as much fresh air. Further, there isn't as much spongy surface for the bloodstream to absorb oxygen.

Patients with severe asthma can ultimately develop emphysema because of the protracted strain on the lungs. While smoking is always bad for the emphysema patient, it isn't the only thing that can cause it. So while asthma and emphysema may be related, they are two distinctly different conditions. For one, asthma is usually related to allergy, and tends to occur in isolated attacks that come and go. Emphysema is a continuous thing — even though the degree of shortness of breath can vary.

One other thing: is your basic trouble bronchitis — some sort of chronic infection of the bronchial tubes? Bronchitis is a frequent precursor and companion of emphysema. You've "assumed" all these years that your trouble is asthma. Don't you think it's time to find out for certain? I surely do.

You may have a combination of troubles, requiring something in addition to the temporary relief from the remedy you've been using.

The X-rays are fine, but they are intended primarily for detecting tuberculosis or cancer, and may not disclose emphysema.

My advice to you is to stop worrying about the increasing emphasis on money by owners and players in professional sports. You're just making yourself, and ME, MISERABLE!

The Fishing Days

This is the time of year to get all excited about fishing and also about the great outdoors.

Yet we haven't been fishing for, lo, these many years. Several years ago we gave away the four or five fishing outfits we possessed because we were not having any luck getting out.

Then, three years ago we thought we could see the light at the end of the tunnel. So we purchased two complete spinning outfits — one for Mrs. Spectator and the other one for us.

Well, that year we purchased two fishing licenses in addition to the outfits. We didn't use either.

Then came last year. We purchased two more licenses and the fishing came a little closer. We actually got one of the rods together, put the reel on it and put the line through. We never wet the line — but at least it was closer than the year before.

Now comes this year. And fishing season is not too far off. The problem — should we buy a couple of licenses or should we just look at the outfits without additional expense?

On the other hand the licenses do make good identification and, say, a hundred years or so from now they may look real nice on display in some museum.

Indians ask foreign help

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American Indians, frustrated with an unresponsive American government, are now turning to foreign governments for help, an Indian official said Monday.

Dennis Banks, national director of the American Indian Movement (AIM), said the first try for foreign help would be made through the Swedish embassy in Washington.

Other nations which aim may try to use as intermediaries to get United Nations action on the "problems America's first citizens" are having in the United States, Banks said, have not been determined.

He said the decision to seek foreign help was made during the weekend at an emergency meeting at Eagle Butte, S.D., a tiny community on the Cheyenne River Indian Reservation.

The meeting was called, he said, after Richard G. Kleindienst, acting attorney general, rejected a request by Rep. James Abourezk, D-S.D., to intervene in a Gordon Neb., incident on grounds the Justice Department lacked federal jurisdiction.

Abourezk and Indian leaders had called for federal investigation of the Feb. 26 death of Raymond Yellow Thunder, 51, an Ogalala Sioux Indian found dead after being beaten and humiliated by being stripped and shoved into a dance hall.

Banks said the lack of response to the incident by the government agencies pointed up the trouble American Indians have been facing in getting redress of problems such as economic oppression, racial discrimination and lack of opportunities.

"Now, at the height of Indian awareness and when the citizens of America are becoming concerned, we are turned off by the Justice Department, President Nixon and everybody in Washington," Banks told UPI in an interview.

"The only way to bring about change is to appeal to foreign embassies and institutions and to take it to the United Nations that the Indian people of America are suffering common and daily mistreatment. Non-Indian officials in our government have failed miserably."

The Twin Falls Fire Department presented the check to further the activities of the charitable organization.

State auditor raps appointment

BOISE (UPI) — State Auditor Joe R. Williams sharply criticized today the appointment of Gale Brammer as year-round administrative assistant to the legislative leadership.

Williams said the hiring of Brammer at $1,200 per month for that post amounts simply to "paying a campaign manager for the lieutenant governor and speaker of the House."

Both the lieutenant governor, who serves as president of the Senate, and the speaker of the House are Republicans. Williams is a Democrat.

"I can't see how the taxpayer will benefit from this," Williams told newsmen.

He said this eventually will develop into a need for extra office space plus employment of a secretary.

"I think our legislature is very well covered by the existing press," he said, calling Brammer "a public relations person."

Brammer served as a public relations man for the House during the recent legislative session.

"We're trying to cut down expenditures as much as we can," Williams said, "and this is not in that direction."

Mills campaigns for withdrawal

By United Press International Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, who has opposed congressional attempts to dictate an end to the war in Indochina, campaigned for the Democratic presidential nomination Tuesday by urging immediate and total withdrawal of all U.S. forces from Vietnam.

The Arkansas congressman's turn-around was coupled with criticism of President Nixon's decision to resume U.S. air strikes in North Vietnam and his new stance on the war was a surprise.

The chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, Mills has said he would wait until the July convention at Miami Beach to make his main effort to win the nomination. In the past he supported the Johnson and Nixon administrations in fighting off efforts by congressional doves to force an end to American participation in the war. But speaking to employees reporting to work at the Boston Edison Co. plant in Newton, Mass., where he was campaigning for the April 25 Massachusetts primary, Mills said that had he been President "none of our troops would be there because I would have had them out of Vietnam a long time ago."

Mills' view clashed sharply with another Democratic contender, Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, who noted in Columbus, Ohio, that he advocated U.S. air power to "seal off" the North Vietnam port of Haiphong six years ago.

Nixon welcomes tennis players

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon welcomed the Chinese table tennis players to the White House Tuesday and told them the big winner of their exhibition tour of the United States would be peace and friendship between America and China.

"We know in the course of your tour of the United States you will receive a good welcome," Nixon told the team in the sun-drenched Rose Garden. "We know that in your matches, there will be winners and losers. But there is one big winner and that is more important than who wins a match in table tennis."

"The big winner, because of this people-to-people contact, will be friendship between the people of the United States and the people of the People's Republic of China," Nixon said.

"Friendship between our two great peoples will mean a better chance for peace in the world," he said.

Chuang Tse-tung, the world table tennis champion, responded for the touring Chinese — 14 players, 14 translators and newsmen and 6 members of China's United Nations delegation — and said Nixon's statement "is in conformity with the desire of our two peoples." He spoke through an interpreter and said he and the others were delighted to be in the United States "when flowers are in full bloom."

The President warmly shook hands with each of the Chinese. All but two wore the traditional high-buttoned Mao jackets. They had on suits and ties.

Nixon also greeted nonplaying officials, including Graham Steenhoven of Detroit, head of the U.S. Table Tennis Federation. "Ah, Mr. Steenhoven. He was the beginner," exclaimed the President when he spied Steenhoven who is generally regarded as being responsible for the "ping pong" diplomacy which led to Nixon's trip to China in February.

To one Chinese official, Nixon remarked, "Maybe we can come back to Hangchow in the spring. I know how beautiful the flowers must be."

The United States all-star team has lost two matches to the Chinese, each by 5 to 1 scores. The matches were played in Detroit and suburban College Park, Md. The touring players go to New York Wednesday and also plan stops in Memphis, Huntsville, Ala., and Los Angeles before returning home.

Army seeks men

TWIN FALLS — A drive to recruit new members of the Army Reserve's Company D, 20th Engineer Battalion, began today according to Captain Clyde N. Carlson.

Capt. Carlson said the unit is presently below authorized strength and the goal is to recruit new members and attain 100 per cent strength within the next three months.

Young men can now enlist in the unit, serve on active duty for four months while learning a skill in the construction or mechanical trades and then return to the unit for the remainder of his reserve training while receiving pay and allowances that have been substantially increased recently.

A recent change in policy allows high school seniors to enlist and defer training until after graduation. Vietnam veterans are encouraged to find out more about benefits and pay that are offered by contacting the local Army Reserve Training Center.

Full-time recruiters are on duty daily Monday through Friday at the center, telephone 733-1062 or phone 733-2882 or 733-4066 in the evenings.

Saturn blasts crater

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — The $20-million third stage of the Saturn 5 rocket that pushed Apollo 16 into space today blasted a 60-foot crater in the moon's crust. But it will be 47 minutes behind schedule and 157 miles off target.

Flight director Gerald D. Griffin said the S-B rocket would impact the surface at 4:10 p.m. EDT with the force of 11 tons of TNT. The 20,000-pound booster will be travelling 5,727 miles per hour when it hits, 63 1/4 miles north and 5 miles east of the $25 million nuclear powered science station set up in the Ocean of Storms by Apollo 12.

Scientists had targeted the impact for 136 miles almost due west of the Apollo 12 station, but a pressure valve malfunction caused them to abandon plans to keep its course through space true, Griffin said.

Sensometers at the Apollo 12, 14 and 15 sites will record the intensity, strength, direction and depth of vibrations sent through the moon by the impact. The readings will add more data to previous efforts to predict the moon's subsurface structure.

A space agency spokesman said scientists were not concerned that the S-B would hit closer to the Apollo 12 instruments than planned.

The S-B was sent tumbling end over end toward the moon Sunday after astronaut John W. Young, Thomas R. Mattingly and Charles M. Duke docked the command ship Casper with the lunar module Orion then attached to the final stage.

Mask holds secret

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — The secret of the mysterious light flashes that have baffled moonlight astronauts for three years, was locked today in the hollow walls of a $200,000 space mask aboard Apollo 16.

Astronaut Charles M. Duke wore the mask for more than two hours in an experiment designed to prove the flashes are caused by cosmic rays. Every time Duke saw a flash through the mask's hollow metal walls he would tell ground controllers the intensity and the direction of the light.

Simultaneously, the flash was recorded on film in the mask's hollow walls. After the flight, scientists will study the film to see if the cosmic rays left tracks at the times Duke reported seeing flashes.

The mask was designed by Dr. Zack Osborne, a physicist at the Manned Spacecraft Center. It was being used in space for the first time.

Lawrence Pinsky, principal investigator in the experiment, is convinced the flashes are cosmic rays and that Duke's mask will prove it.

Hopeful slates confab

BOISE (UPI) — Edward V. Williams, administrative assistant to Gov. Cecil D. Andrus and often mentioned as a possible candidate for the Democratic nomination for First District congressman, has scheduled a news conference for Thursday morning.

Williams, a former state representative from Lewiston, was first elected in 1962 and served as House minority leader in 1969-70 and in 1971.

Following the 1971 session, he left the legislature to join the governor's staff.

To date, no Democrats have announced as candidates for the seat to be vacated by Rep. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, who is a candidate for the U.S. Senate.

The news conference will be at 9:30 a.m. in the Idaho City Room of the Hotel Boise.

White House agrees to let aide testify

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Prospects for confirmation of Richard G. Kleindienst as attorney general appeared improved today by the White House agreement to let Presidential Aide Peter M. Flanigan testify in the Senate's ITT investigation.

"I think Kleindienst will be confirmed," said Judiciary Committee Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss.

The committee scheduled Flanigan to appear Thursday, the last day of its planned public hearings into Justice Department activities while Kleindienst was assistant attorney general.

The panel wants to find out first hand what role, if any, Flanigan played in arranging an out-of-court settlement of a billion dollar antitrust suit against International Telephone & Telegraph. It also wants to know if Flanigan had any part in, or knowledge of, an ITT offer to contribute $200,000 or more to subsidize this summer's Republican National Convention.

Flanigan recruited Wall Street analyst Richard Ramsden to make an "independent" analysis of what would happen if ITT had to give up Hartford Fire Insurance Co. in a force breakup of a merger which the antitrust division of the Justice Department had said was illegal.

ITT was arguing at the time that such a divestiture would have disastrous consequences for ITT's stockholders, a damaging "ripple effect" on the stock market and the national economy, and cause a worsening of the nation's trade deficit.

Ramsden's analysis agreed with part of that position.

Ramsden testified earlier that Flanigan gave him ITT's position paper, but swore he was not influenced by it and did not know that it was written by ITT Director Felix Rohatyn.

It was partly on the basis of Ramsden's report that the Justice Department switched its position and settled the case out of court, permitting ITT to retain Hartford, but requiring it to give up several other companies.

The committee has been sparring with the White House for more than a week over whether Flanigan would be permitted to testify. As late as April 10, White House Counselor John Dean told the committee Flanigan would not be permitted to testify because of his confidential position as Nixon's aide.

At that point, several Democrats said they would never consent to Kleindienst's confirmation unless Flanigan testified.

The White House relented and Flanigan agreed to testify if the scope of his testimony was limited to his procurement of Ramsden and the circumstances surrounding a meeting with ITT president Harold S. Geneen last February.

Geneen has testified the meeting was a casual one while he—Geneen—was a guest at a dinner at which government reorganization plans were explained to businessmen.

PETER FLANIGAN ... will testify

Moscow visit planned

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Soviet Ambassador Anatoly S. Dobrynin was expected to leave for Moscow today to help prepare for President Nixon's visit to the Russian capital May 22.

U.S. officials said the Soviet embassy advised them earlier this week of Dobrynin's intended departure and they expected him to leave Kennedy Airport in New York on a Soviet Airlines flight at 8:30 p.m. EST.

State Department officials said Dobrynin did not meet with Secretary of State William P. Rogers immediately before departing for Moscow. They met Feb. 4 and March 22 to lay the groundwork for the Nixon visit.

Treaty enacted

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States and Mexico have formally put into force a treaty resolving boundary disputes—some dating back to 1907—caused by course changes in the Rio Grande and Colorado Rivers.

The Senate approved the treaty last November. It was formally implemented Tuesday when Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Mexican Ambassador Jose De Olague exchanged documents at a State Department ceremony.

Plants inspected

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Forty per cent of food processing plants inspected by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) were found to operate under unsanitary conditions.

This report was given a House appropriations subcommittee Tuesday by the General Accounting Office (GAO), which said it asked FDA inspectors to check 97 food processing plants picked at random from among 4,500 firms in 21 states.

GAO spokesmen said 39 plants, or 40 per cent, "were operating under unsanitary conditions and of the 39, there were some that were operating under serious unsanitary conditions having the potential for causing or having caused product contamination."

On the basis of the sample, we estimate that 40 per cent of the 4,500 plants are operating under unsanitary conditions, including 1,000 with serious unsanitary conditions," the GAO said.

The unsanitary conditions ranged from peeling paint to rodent infected food products, the report said.

A thought for today: American poet James Russell Lowell said, "Who speaks the truth stabs falsehood in the heart."

Protesters get violent at Harvard demonstration

by United Press International
Police used tear gas and dogs at Harvard Tuesday night to disperse glass-breaking, paper-shredding demonstrators protesting the renewed use of bombs on North Vietnam.

On the second consecutive day of coast-to-coast demonstrations against the bombing and the Vietnam War, most of the protests were peaceful. Far fewer people were reported arrested than the 170 during demonstrations Monday, and there were few instances of violence or property damage.

At Harvard, however, a demonstration by about 1,500 persons which began peacefully at a Boston military facility turned violent when scores of demonstrators crossed into Cambridge, ran into Harvard Square and on into the Harvard Center for International Studies.

The protesters set a fire, smashed windows and destroyed papers, including one student's notes on the Cuban revolution.

Police declared a 9 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew and used tear gas and leashed dogs to enforce it. Three demonstrators were arrested.

Earlier that day, riot-equipped police had used tear gas and leashed dogs to clear 75 students staging a sit-in on a road at the University of Maryland in College Park. That followed a rock-throwing incident which led to 13 arrests.

In Minneapolis, about 200 demonstrators from the University of Minnesota marched to a military recruiting center, the administration building and an armory. They voted to hold a teach-in on the Indochina war today.

About 150 persons marched around a flag-draped coffin in Des Moines, Iowa, to show Washington that the nation's heartland sympathizes with efforts to end the war, sponsors said.

Peaceful rallies were held at Stanford University in California and Columbia University in New York. At Columbia, about 600 students voted to stage an immediate strike. The Stanford student newspaper also urged a strike.

Agents challenge FBI authority

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI)—Angela Davis' attorneys Tuesday challenged the authority of the FBI to seize as evidence four love letters between the black militant and slain convict George Jackson.

Former agent Jim McCord said the letters were taken from the avowed Communist's Los Angeles apartment during a nationwide search for "anything that could lead us to persons or places, which in turn, might lead to Miss Davis," following the Marin County shootings of 1970.

She even hinted the FBI might have planted them.

Abortion law under review

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI)—The U.S. District Court declared Connecticut's 112-year-old restrictive abortion law unconstitutional Tuesday.

Deputy Atty. General C. Perrie Phillips said his office would review the decision for possible appeal and Republican Gov. Thomas J. Meskill, a Roman Catholic, said he may ask the legislature to enact a new abortion law.

The Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Hartford asked the state to fight the ruling to "defend the absolute right of the child over a mother's false absolute freedom to take her own child's life away."

McGovern takes 7 Gem votes

BOISE (UPI)—Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., will take seven of Idaho's 17 delegate votes to the national convention in Miami in July.

McGovern took a clean 45 per cent of delegate support Monday night when 1,000 democrats caucused in the state's 25 legislative districts.

A final congressional district breakdown, which party officials said will be subject to change, showed McGovern with seven, Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, three, Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., one, and New York Rep. Shirley Chisholm, two. The uncommitted vote stands at four.

Allende attacks America's ITT

SANTIAGO (UPI)—President Salvador Allende attacked America's International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. Tuesday, as "the perfect example of imperialism" and said he will ask congress to expropriate the company's Chilean holdings.

Allende made the announcement to thousands of cheering supporters in a speech in which he also accused the opposition of attempting to start a civil war. He said the army and the public were solidly behind his government.

Allende hinted the expropriation legislation would contain a "negative indemnization" clause, under which ITT's "excessive profits" would be deducted from the book value of the company's Chilean property.

Such a clause was included in the constitutional amendment under which major U.S. copper interests were expropriated last July. As a result, Allende held that the companies were not entitled to compensation and owe Chile money. The case is being appealed.

Allende repeatedly criticized the ITT Tuesday night for its alleged efforts to block his inauguration in 1970 when he became the hemisphere's first

Firm can't meet cleanup deadline

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ford Motor Co. testified today it could not meet the government's exhaust cleanup deadline and said refusal to postpone it could force a shutdown that would put 800,000 people out of work.

Even with a one-year postponement—all that the law allows—Ford said it had "no technical basis whatsoever" for believing it could meet the standards. The company urged William D. Ruckelshaus, administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), to review the standards and "present his recommendations to Congress," taking into consideration the high cost of emission controls.

Ford did not say so but the implication was that Ruckelshaus should ask Congress to dilute or delay the antipollution standards, which were written into the 1970 Clean Air Act for 1975 model cars.

Ford's position was stated in a document formally requesting that the standards be delayed one year. Other auto makers have made the same request.

EPA officials subpoenaed Herbert L. Misch, Ford vice president, to answer questions today about the proposed delay.

Echoing statements by General Motors and other manufacturers, Ford said tests indicated its exhaust controls would wear out much too quickly. The law requires a 90 per cent reduction in emissions of carbon monoxide and hydrocarbons, and stipulates that the controls still work after 50,000 miles of driving.

Even with this "disappointing performance," Ford said, the control devices would boost the cost of a 1975 model by $430. The firm said it was now testing another device that would cost $290.

Air bags fail in auto safety test

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — An experimental safety automobile was test crashed into a barrier at nearly 50 miles per hour Tuesday and sustained relatively minor damage.

But the air bag restraints designed to inflate .03 of a second after impact failed to activate, and the three dummies inside the vehicle were tossed forward.

Despite the failure of the air bags, Transportation Secretary John Volpe, who witnessed the crash, called the vehicle a "great forward advance in automobile safety."

"You've got to remember that certain things happen and certain things do not," he said. "That's why this test was conducted."

"We have had human beings, not dummies, human beings that crashed with an air bag at 32 miles per hour. That's much further, much faster than people have gone with seat belts and shoulder harnesses."

Acceptance asked for homosexuals

ATLANTA (UPI) — The United Methodist Church has been called upon to "declare our acceptance of homosexuals as persons of sacred worth and that we welcome them into the fellowship of the church."

The request came in a lengthy statement Tuesday on social principals presented to the 1,000 delegates, representing the denomination's 11 million members, meeting in general conference.

There was no immediate action on the document other than to send portions of it to various committees before debating it later on the convention floor.

In addition to homosexuals, the principles deal with such subjects as drugs, racism, war, resistors, abortion and death, plus a new statement on sex. It was considered the most potentially explosive step in Methodist leaders' attempts to modernize the church.

Bishop James S. Thomas, Des Moines, Iowa, chairman of the commission which drafted the proposals, said he was aware they would generate disagreement. But he said he felt the urgency of the times made necessary an attempt to "speak the word of the Gospel" to a secular generation.

In another section of the document, United Methodists were urged to make "a determined effort to understand human sexuality more completely."

It said marital sex was "most clearly to be affirmed in the marriage bond" but added "sex may become exploitative within as well as outside marriage," which some delegates have interpreted to condone sex among unmarried men and women.

Tax said illegal

BOISE (UPI) — A one-cent-per-carton cigarette tax in conflict with another cigarette tax signed into law at a later time by the governor.

The later tax will raise the state levy two cents per pack, while the earlier tax would have put one-cent on each carton of cigarettes sold in the state.

Secretary of the state Pete Cenarussa, who called for the opinion, said his office would abide by the ruling unless there was another conclusion drawn from court action.

Teamsters given hike

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Teamsters in Utah and Idaho working for Browning Freight Lines, Inc., will get more money under a new contract calling for an increase over the next three years.

The contract calls for a $2.72 per hour increase including 20 cents per hour more in pension, health and welfare benefits.

More than 100 members of four Teamsters locals voted Tuesday to accept the offer.

Disenchanted

STRIKES are no longer good tools for organized labor, AFL-CIO George Meany told a Senate labor subcommittee Tuesday. Meany said he has appointed a union committee to find an alternative weapon to the strike. (UPI)

Oil firm involves Negroes

By DEAN C. MILLER
UPI Business Editor
NEW YORK. (UPI)—Mobil Oil Corp., one of the 10 largest industrial complexes in the world, seems to have found a way to make a minority program produce more than a better corporate image.

At least that's the word from the black college students Mobil has introduced to its corner of the business-world over the last five years.

Every year since 1968 Mobil has invited some 20 sophomores from traditionally black colleges and universities to spend a week at its New York headquarters. They visit laboratories, refineries, marketing and retail centers and talk with corporate officials and employees.

It's important for students, especially black students, to know the scope of career possibilities within industry, explained William Granville Jr. of the company's employee relations staff. "We show them and they go back to their school and, we hope, spread the word about the company."

Students, chosen on the basis of interviews and written essays, have been impressed with what they saw and heard. The program has shaped the futures of some of them.

"I can't wait to get back and tell my friends what it (the business world) is all about," said Miss Alfreda Harvey who is concentrating on employee and personnel relations at North Carolina Central University, Durham, N.C. Miss Harvey was one of 21 black students invited to New York in late March.

Before this anytime I heard of Mobil I thought of gas," she said. "Now things are in perspective. I can see the diversity, the people, the many jobs, the many opportunities. I have so many thoughts, so many hopes running through my mind I have to tell myself wait a minute, slow down."

Munich prepares welcome

MUNICH, Germany (UPI) — Munich is preparing a different kind of welcome for a portion of the 350,000 guests expected to flock to the Bavarian capital during the 1972 summer Olympic games.

They are the thousands of pickpockets, purse snatchers, petty criminals and other undesirables police are sure will converge on Munich for the games, which begin Aug. 26.

Munich Criminal Police Chief Hermann Haering outlined some of the problems in a pamphlet called "Police in Bavaria." He said that pessimists are expecting a 100-per cent increase in crime during the games.

"From experience it is known that numerous national and international criminals of all kind will be attracted to the Olympics," Haering said. "They consider the games a unique opportunity for their shady operations."

"The police chief is expecting the sharpest rise in street crimes, such as forging of tickets for the games, pocket-picking and general theft. That sort of crime increased 37 per cent during the 1936 Berlin games."

"Specially trained and coordinated gangs of pickpockets, as well as outside prostitutes have to be expected," he said. "A clash between local and outside prostitutes seems almost inevitable."

Large numbers of hippies likely will be in Munich at the time, so drug traffic—already on the increase in West Germany—probably will be high, according to Haering.

The welcoming committee for these unwanted "guests" will be in the form of sharply reinforced police units.

Haering said Munich's 4,000-man police force would be increased to 10,000 for the games—with plain clothes, uniformed and traffic officers coming to the Bavarian capital mostly from state and customs police.

Delay in payroll law asked

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus today asked Auditor Joe R. Williams not to implement a new payroll law until the Board of Examiners can confer with state employees about it.

Andrus made the request after Williams called the board's attention to a law which goes into effect July 1 giving the auditor authority to issue state payroll warrants any time between the first and 10th of each month. At present, the first of each month is payday in state government.

When Williams brought up the matter Andrus said he felt it was "fraught with all kinds of dangers" and suggested discussing it with a representative of the state employees' association.

Williams agreed and said he would not implement the new law until some of the problems with it were worked out.

One of the problems discussed by the board was the fact many state employees have time payment contracts tied to the first month when they get their pay warrants.

Moscow trip said game of 'chicken'

By NORMAN KEMPSTER
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Backstairs at the White House: President Nixon is playing a game of international "chicken" with the Soviet Union over his scheduled visit to Moscow in May.

Both sides want the meeting, but apparently only on their own terms. Although plans for the summit conference are progressing on schedule, the situation is brittle and could snap at any time.

Canadian Parliament. The remark was added by the President to his speech after copies were distributed to newsmen.

There was no doubt in Ottawa, Washington or Moscow about the meaning of the President's words.

The situation follows the

Analysis

classic cold war pattern of probe and react. If Nixon goes through with his trip to Moscow, scheduled to begin May 22, it may turn into a rerun of his famous "kitchen debate" with former Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in July, 1959.

Nixon clearly still wants to go to Moscow, but the evidence indicates he is far less anxious to go to the Soviet Union than he was to go to China in February.

In contrast to recent challenges to the Soviet Union, Nixon was careful to avoid anything that would offend the Chinese prior to his departure for Peking.

The U.S. "tilt" toward Pakistan in the India-Pakistan war last December apparently was intended to avoid any confrontation with China, Pakistan's staunchest ally among the big powers.

During the India-Pakistan fighting, the administration brought pressure on the Soviets to urge India to show restraint. The Soviet Union was India's chief supplier of arms.

In December, White House national security adviser Henry A. Kissinger, said if Moscow did not use its influence in New Delhi to bring peace that Nixon might have to reassess his plans to go to Russia.

Kissinger was widely believed to have been bluffing at that time. But the United States is far more involved in Indochina than it ever was on the Asian subcontinent. It is possible that actions by either the United States or the Soviet Union in Vietnam could cause the other nation to reassess the summit plans.

Humans can make about 700,000 different meaningful gestures through body movements and facial expressions.

2 Jerome men take petitions

JEROME — The Times-News learned today that Cecil Moore Jr. with Morris Service, Jerome, has taken out a petition for City Council.

He is expected to announce his candidacy Thursday.

It also was learned Dewey Cavin, owner of Cavin's Body Shop, also has taken out a petition, but is not sure when he will announce his candidacy.

Moore will be a candidate in the June 6 recall elections against two Jerome City Councilmen Walt Bentzinger and Edwin Tinker. Both Bentzinger and Tinker are automatically candidates in the election.

The Jerome City Council last week set the June 6 date for the recall election after a decision by Fifth District Judge Theron Ward, who directed the city to call for a recall election.

Persons wanting to run for the council must have petitions signed by at least 41 qualified electors.

Information on the filing period can be obtained from the city clerk at Jerome City Hall.

Shoshone school principal quits

SHOSHONE — The resignation of high school Principal Carl Kinney was received and accepted by the Shoshone School Board at a special meeting Monday night.

Kinney has been a teacher in the school system for 19 years, 13 years as principal. He will leave Shoshone at the end of this school term.

He announced he has accepted a position at Northwest College of the Assembly of God at Kirkland, Wash.

Supt. Kenneth Crothers said in other business at the special meeting, the board adopted a resolution approving an application for a learning disabilities program. The application will be sent to the Idaho Department of Education, and calls for a program for the three Lincoln County schools, Shoshone, Richfield and Dietrich.

The program would provide for a teacher and aide and a classroom setup with students who need the specialized attention from all three schools enrolled.

The board also continued work on the budget for next year, and will meet next Monday night to complete outlining the tentative budget. The formal budget hearing will be at 8 p.m. May 8 at the high school building.

Ketchum children clean up

KETCHUM — Six pickup trucks were filled Tuesday morning with waste paper, pieces of old pipe, glass and general junk collected from Ketchum streets and alleys.

With the manpower supplied by 150 fourth, fifth and sixth graders from Ernest Hemingway School and the truck power supplied by their parents, the cleanup lasted about two hours and covered most of the city and main streets.

Accompanied by their teacher and several parents, each class ranged over its assigned area with large plastic bags. Several groups cleaned up shopping areas, while others tackled vacant lots and the Sun Valley and Warm Springs Roads.

Principal Sam Hazard said the project was part of a continuing environmental program at the school. Primary grade children, also numbering about 150, cleaned the school yard and adjacent neighborhood Wednesday morning.

Throughout the cleanup, aluminum cans were separated from other trash. Hazard said all the children had been saving the cans to sell to a recycling plant, earning money for playground equipment.

Other environmental projects conducted by the students included a pollution poster contest last week and the writing of a pollution song.

Ketchum students will also participate with other county students in an area-wide cleanup April 25.

Gooding senior center possible

GOODING — Gooding can have a senior citizen center, according to Edwin Wimmer, director of the Idaho Office on Aging.

Wimmer told the Gooding Chamber of Commerce Tuesday that the center and related programs can be started in Gooding if enough people are interested.

Federal matching funds are available for such programs and range from $3,000 to $35,000 depending upon community needs and desires. Wimmer told the group that his office writes the grant to fill the program and the projects are administered locally.

The Idaho Office on Aging establishes, coordinates and evaluates programs and helps carry out activities which comply with the Older Americans Act of 1965. The purpose of the act, he explained, is to provide opportunities for senior citizens to maintain their dignity, provide a social and physical environment for participation in various activities and a location where older citizens can get information of special services available to them.

To meet the specifications of the act, the Idaho Office on Aging has a nine point program which includes transportation, nutrition, senior centers, information and referral services, friendly visitor services, homemakers aides, outreach services (field work), employment (recruiting jobs and the retired persons to fill them) and telephone reassurance (a daily check to be sure the elderly person is okay). All of these services are currently in operation in Idaho.

Wimmer presented a slide series called "Let's End Loneliness" which illustrated some of the situations in which the elderly find themselves.

He told the Times-News that the possibility of a senior citizen program in Gooding looks hopeful and that he plans to meet next week with city and county officials to draw up the mechanics of a program, form committees and possibly put together a grant program. Wimmer stressed that his office was not forcing the project on anyone, saying they merely make the opportunity for people to walk in and enjoy the services at no extra cost to the taxpayer.

Jerome studies benches for downtown section

BY CHARLOTTE BELL

Times-News writer
JEROME — Jerome City Council will study a request by Jim Payton, Jerome, to place concrete benches in the downtown shopping area for senior citizens.

Payton told the council Tuesday night that several businessmen in Jerome feel something should be done to make shopping for the senior citizens at Heritage Home easier.

"Some of these citizens have only a couple blocks range before they must rest," Payton said.

He suggested several benches be placed between Heritage Home and the downtown area along with several benches in the downtown area.

The council advised Payton to check further into the matter and report back.

William Thompson, Jerome, presented a preliminary plat for a mobile home park in the 300 block of East Avenue A. Thompson told the council he plans to build 11 mobile home spaces and will present his final plat at a later date.

The final plat for Hillcrest Subdivision was presented to the council by Jack Straubhar, J.U.B. Engineers, Twin Falls. The subdivision was formerly called the Lannum Subdivision and contained 17 lots and has now been modified to 16 lots and is located north of 10th Street.

The council accepted the final plat subject to the approval of the city attorney.

The council also acted on a report from the zoning commission which recommended that the subdivision be rezoned first residential and annexed into the city.

The council advised the city attorney to draw up the annexation ordinance and a public hearing is expected to be held on Friday, May 5, also the date for the opening of sealed bids for 16,000 gallons of regular gasoline, 2,500 gallons of No. 2 diesel fuel and a two-ton truck.

Chief of Police Howard DuBois told the council that the teletype machine was now in operation and that most of the remodeling of the police department has been completed.

He also informed the council that the carbon monoxide chamber for the disposal of stray dogs should be in operation next week.

DuBois said the work on the chamber has been done by city personnel and they followed the recommendations of the National Veterinary Association in preparing the chamber.

Wendell cleans

WENDELL — Students of the Wendell High School, under the supervision of John Teeter, today joined the Wendell City Council and Home Improvement Club in a cleanup campaign.

Tami Gilbert, member of the group, said the Wendell students have launched an ecological move in observing Earth Week '72. The observance began today with a drive to clean streets and lawns of the city. Miss Gilbert said it is hoped the action will encourage residents of the community to follow good ecology practices all year.

Special activities are planned at noon Thursday and Friday to aid in informing people of the community of the campaign.

Gooding girl chosen for trip

GOODING — A Gooding High School girl has been chosen to attend the United Nations Youth Pilgrimage in New York City in June.

The program is sponsored by the Gooding lodges, of Oddfellows and Rebekahs.

Students in competition took examinations and then gave oral presentations before the lodge members. They were asked to speak on the topic, "What the United Nations means to me and why I would like to attend the Youth Pilgrimage."

Nationwide, more than 150 students are selected annually to make the trip to New York by bus. At the United Nations complex, students attend council meetings and interview various U.N. delegates. While in New York, the youngsters are guests of International House.

Bureau to meet

JEROME — Jerome County Farm Bureau will meet at 8 p.m. tonight at Wood Cafe.

Filer school superintendent feted

FILER — Tom Turner, who is retiring after 19 years as Filer school superintendent was honored at a dinner Tuesday night.

The event was sponsored by the Filer Education Association and attended by about 100 people. Persons attending included teachers at Filer Elementary School, Filer High School, Hollister Elementary School and school trustees.

Mrs. Turner, who has served as office clerk, and Mrs. Loren Farmer, retiring clerk of the school board, were honored.

Eugene Griff, retiring chairman of the board, presented a plaque of appreciation to Turner from the trustees.

A gift from all the professional employees of the district was presented to the Turners.

Special guests included Mr. and Mrs. Ray Baker and Arthur Chatburn, former principal. Baker will assume the position being vacated by Turner.

Rupert doctor, 66, dies

RUPERT — Dr. Otto A. Moellmer, retired physician formerly of Rupert, died suddenly at his home Tuesday in Salt Lake City at the age of 66.

Dr. Moellmer was a physician and surgeon in Rupert for 32 years. He retired in June, 1968, to serve a two-year assignment with the Peace Corps in Guyana.

He completed his internship and surgical residency at the Salt Lake City LDS Hospital, and started his medical practice in Rupert July 3, 1936. He was one of few doctors in the area during World War II, and averaged delivering more than one baby per day while continuing to serve his regular office and hospital patients.

In 1940 he instituted the first pre-school physical examination and immunization program for county children, and his design was later adopted for use throughout the state. He married Leah McArthur June 27, 1938, in Salt Lake City.

He is survived by his wife, three sons, a brother and three sisters.

Rupert's sewer extension eyed

RUPERT — Rupert may have to extend a sewer line beyond city limits to link up with Minico High School, according to an edict from the Idaho Department of Health.

The city council heard an appeal Tuesday night from Bill Hellewell, buildings and grounds supervisor for the Minidoka County School District to consider a joint project to supply sewer service to the 1,200-student high school.

The school is presently utilizing a septic tank system feeding into a large drain field in front of the school building and under the parking lot.

A high sub-surface water level creates a continual drainage problem, with some of the effluent draining back into nearby irrigation ditches.

Hellewell said he was told, "something must be done in the near future" by Alex Schager, department of health, following an inspection by state officials.

The state has asked that the school district "have a plan in mind" to provide sewer service to the school by next fall.

A lagoon system for disposal was suggested by the state at an estimated cost of $100,000, which is far outside the district's capability at the present time, Hellewell said.

Rupert City Councilman Clark Cameron said a major problem is state law which forbids a municipality to extend services beyond city limits.

However, dealing with another political subdivision such as a school district, might allow the extension, Cameron said.

The cost of the project could be quite high and the district might wind-up owing the city money each month for maintenance and operation, Cameron said.

The council agreed to look further into the proposal and determine the legal and financial aspects of the plan.

Washington man hurt at Carey

CAREY — A Washington man sustained back injuries after the pickup truck he was driving crashed after soaring 90 feet in the air, near Carey Wednesday.

The victim was identified as Gerald Robinson, 19, Renton, Wash.

He was taken by ambulance to the Blaine County Hospital, Hailey, with back injuries, head and face lacerations.

The accident occurred about one-half mile west of Carey at the base of Picabo Hill on Highway 68.

According to Blaine County sheriff's officers, Robinson was traveling east about 8:30 a.m. when he apparently fell asleep at the wheel.

The vehicle went off the north side of the roadway, struck the ground several yards from the road, then took to the air, jumping an irrigation ditch and landing 90 feet from the road. The vehicle then traveled 34 feet across a field and came to rest after crashing into a borrow pit. Officers said at least $800 damage was sustained by the pickup.

Cassia cleanup project planned for April 29

BURLEY — The Cassia County Johnny Horizon county-wide cleanup is scheduled for April 29, announces John Clark, county commission chairman.

Lou Martindale, Bureau of Land Management official, has been appointed county coordinator for the project.

Plans for the cleanup were outlined at a meeting Monday in the Cassia courtroom.

Clark reported the county land fill is being operated by Teal Sanitation, and pick up and hauling to the landfill is being done by Parks and son.

Both were awarded the jobs on bids through the county commissioners.

Elba, Almo, and Malta have their own landfills with two pickups per week which is working out well, Clark said.

Car bodies and iron machinery can be disposed of just west of Burley. Dead animals are to be disposed of by phoning the Idaho Hide and Tallow, Co., which operates a truck pick up daily in Cassia County or the dead animals may be buried on the resident's property, according to Clark.

At the present time the county has no other way of caring for the dead animals, he added.

Martindale gave a brief report of the county-wide cleanup last year, which had some 800 people working with 100 car bodies removed and about 400 miles of roadside cleaned.

Work assignments will be made at the various meeting points in the county including Salmon Park, Declo City Park, Elba Park, Raft River Rural Electric, Almo School, Bernard Bradshaw home at Milner, Oakley City Park and Albion City Park. Work will begin at 8 a.m. and will conclude about noon, according to Martindale.

Area Chairmen include Leo Henschel, Dick Fuqua, Lyle Durfee, Don Carson, Jack Erickson, Bernard Bradshaw, Dallan Elquist and Jim Chatburn.

The prime need is pickups and trucks to haul away the trash as it is picked up, stressed Martindale. Anyone having pickups or trucks available for use in the cleanup is urged to phone the BLM office, Burley.

BLM officials will be working throughout the county and by using their radios will be able to keep in touch with the area chairmen, advise when and where equipment is being moved and direct other needs as they arise.

Cloyd Taylor of Price's Cafe will prepare lunch for the workers. Food will be served at designated places by the area chairmen.

Flight service at Burley to merge

BURLEY — The Burley Flight Service will absorb the duties performed by the Pocatello Flight Service, starting Thursday.

The discontinuance of the Pocatello Flight Service is part of a national program to eliminate dual-purpose control towers and provide efficient service.

Burley Flight Station will be one of four to provide the service in Idaho, along with Malad, Idaho Falls and Boise, according to Leo Pierce, Burley Flight Service manager.

No new personnel will be added to handle the 15-20 percent work load increase when Burley assumes the services offered by Pocatello, but Pocatello will lose one person. The change will not make additional work for pilots but will just change procedure as Burley assumes responsibility for all airports in south-central Idaho, except Malad.

The flight service at Burley after the change will have monitor control over the Pocatello VORTAC and transmitting capability on the VOR frequency 112.6 MHz. Also it will have receiving capability on 122.1 located at the Pocatello VORTAC site.

Flight plans may be filed and closed by toll-free exchange, telephone 233-3532, or by calling Pocatello Radio on 122.1 and receiving on Pocatello VOR.

Weather briefing will continue to be available from the National Weather Service located at the Pocatello Airport Terminal Building or by calling Burley Flight Service on the toll-free line, Pierce said.

Burley Flight Service Station will assume responsibility for Pocatello, American Falls, Aberdeen, and Breeding Ranch Airports for flight assistance service.

Youth workshop project meeting set tonight

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Community Action Agency has turned over a youth workshop center project to one of its branch agencies.

Actually, the project has been guided by members of the Community Improvement Association since the CAA was confronted with the idea.

The education committee of the improvement group has been setting up the organizational meetings and is the sponsoring agency for the next session slated for 7:30 p.m. today in St. Edward's School.

The meeting has been called to determine the extent of local youth interest in the workshop center concept.

According to current design, the center would provide youngsters with the opportunity to develop basic skills. The Community Improvement Association has been pledged 100 old cars for young people to work on. Another suggestion would set up a basic furniture upholstery course.

Education committeewoman Evelyn Walker said the choice of skills would be left up to the young people interested in the center.

The workshop would be directed by the youngsters themselves with a group of adults serving an advisory function.

Members have already begun fund-raising projects with the receipts to go toward the selection and acquisition of a building site for the center.

Bicycle fair slated at Sun Valley on April 29

SUN VALLEY — Concern for bicycle safety has prompted a "Bicycle Fair," April 29, sponsored by the Ketchum-Sun Valley Pappose Club.

According to club publicity aide Sandy Hawk, the purpose of the event is to keep young cyclists on the roads and out of the hospitals.

The National Safety Council reports that of the 700 bicycle riders killed in one recent year, two-thirds were under 14 years of age, Mrs. Hawk said. Another 34,000 riders were injured in the same year, she said.

Studies indicate that many of the accidents could have been avoided with proper guidance and instruction in safe riding practice and rules of the road, Mrs. Hawk said.

The "Bicycle Fair", which will start at 10 a.m. on the Sun Valley Mall parking lot, will feature a free "bike road" to test skills in signaling, braking, vehicle control and traffic courtesy.

Bicycle accessories will be awarded to racers scoring the most points on the "road" course in the following age groups: pre-school to 8 years, 9 to 12; and over 12 years of age, Mrs. Hawk said.

The program will also include free safety inspections conducted by Ketchum and Sun Valley City police officers. Bicycles may be registered at that time for a 50 cent fee to provide a record in case of theft or loss.

Series begins

BURLEY — A Mix and Match Bridge series will be played April 27 through June 1 at Burley Elks Lodge Hall.

Winners of the last bridge play were Mr. Ella Annett and Mrs. Sadie McMurray, first; Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Brown, second; and Mrs. Margarette Hogg and Mrs. Mae Solomon, third.

Pomerelle open

ALBION — Pomerelle Ski Resort will continue operation through the coming weekend, resort officials announced today.

Cooler temperatures and nine to ten inches of new snow during the past week have brought out sufficient numbers of "die-

The area has between 8 and 12 feet of snow on the slopes and the road is listed in good condition. The rental shop and cafeteria are open but bus service has been discontinued.

New bean cooking process discovered

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Bean Commission said Tuesday a new process has been discovered that reduces cooking time and flatulence in beans.

The quick-cooking process was developed at Stanford Research Institute on a bean commission research grant.

Commission Chairman Tom Morrison, Gooding, said the new process reduces cooking time of drybeans to about 20 minutes and reduces flatulence by 50 per cent.

It is anticipated, Morrison said, that the product will appear on the market as a packaged convenience food, competitive in price with other modern quick-cooking convenience products.

Plains facing drought

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) — The sun spots come to a minimum and the magnetic field associated with the sun spots returns to what it was about 22 years ago, he said.

Roberts, who emphasized his prediction of drought was a preliminary one, said scientists don't know why solar activity might affect rainfall on the Great Plains.

If a drought does occur, Roberts said, scientists will study it carefully with hopes of learning to predict future droughts with accuracy.

"If, indeed, we have a serious drought beginning now and lasting for three or four years, interest in this theory will be so high that many groups will believe in it and go to work on it," Roberts said.

Bull on display

TALL BULL, "Big Al", weighing 2,500 pounds, almost obscures officials of the Cache Valley Breeding Association. The bull is one of three imported European bulls brought here for special display this week. A Maine-Anjou breed member, he already has offspring on the ground in several western states.

'Exotics' draw crowd

TWIN FALLS — The Exotics, a display of imported giant size European bulls, attracted much attention while displayed Monday in the Sears parking lot.

The three bulls are on a tour of the western states from Canada where they were imported for breeding purposes. Included are a Maine-Ardou, a Capone, or "Big Al," as he is called by his caretakers; Efros, a Lamouzin bull, and Renz, a Simmental.

Largest of the three, Big Al, weighs 2,500 pounds. His oversized breed is valued for beef production and milk production in its native France.

The Maine-Anjou bull, Big Al, is like others of the breed, big, but gentle and can easily be handled. While on tour he has been led into crowds and been petted by small children without giving any trouble.

Sponsored by the Cache Valley Breeding Association, Logan, Utah, the tour covered two Utah stops and the Twin Falls visit. Rulon V. Osmond, sales manager for the firm, said all three bulls were brought to Canada because there is no quarantine station in the United States for importing of livestock. The three bulls visited the western states on visas and have to be back in their home territory of Canada by April 26.

The three select sires breeding is available through the association and their first calves are already on the ground and look good, Osmond said.

New Breeds Industry, owner of the bulls, is presenting them to show trends in the beef industry and to let growers know what is available in the way of putting more meat on their animals, said Elmo Packer, general manager, Cache Valley Breeders.

Others traveling with the display include Ray Wallace, sire analyst for Cache Valley, and George Vavra, herdsman.

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI) Prices were mixed and slightly higher in active trading on the New York Stock Exchange at the end of three hours Wednesday.

The Dow Jones Industrial average of 30 selected blue chip stocks was up 1.51 to 970.43 shortly before 1:15 p.m. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index was off 0.07 at 109.70.

Volume amounted to 11,580,000 shares compared with 12,110,000 shares traded during the corresponding period Tuesday. Of the 1,688 issues crossing the tape, declines outnumbered advances 688 to 817.

News developments apparently had little effect on the market. Commerce Secretary Peter Peterson announced the first quarter Gross National Product had expanded by $30.3 billion, most of which was due to inflation. Peterson said the Nixon Administration goal of a $100 billion increase in the GNP this year is "in sight" but added inflation remains a "major problem."

Most active stocks included Fannie Mae, off 1/4 at 23 1/2 on volume of 171,700 shares. Republic Corp. was up 1/4 to 8 1/4 on 144,700 shares and Plessey on gained 1/4 to 2 1/4 on 139,100 shares, including a block of 82,000.

More import of oil seen

By WILLIAM E. CLAYTON
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Treasury Secretary John B. Connally Jr. testified Tuesday the United States may have to import more oil to meet its immediate needs but over the long haul ought to keep domestic industries growing and "stop the rising trend of imports."

"Our oil and other hydrocarbon resources are not scarce. We have vast resources. We need not fear running out of these resources physically," Connally said at the House Interior Committee's hearing on the nation's fuel and energy situation.

"I think it makes more sense to keep these vital domestic industries growing and making use of this rich store ... instead of increasing our import bill by huge amounts," Connally said.

"We may have to import more than we would prefer to in order to avoid energy shortages. But we sympathize with the idea of minimizing our reliance on imports. We want to stop the rising trend of imports and if possible, reverse it. But we had better not tie our hands with a rigid ceiling."

Connally estimated that for every 1 million barrels of oil daily this country imports, it incurs approximately a $1 billion balance-of-trade deficit per year. Within a few decades, unless things change considerably, he said, that could mean a $15 billion deficit from that.

trade alone. Connally said he was not speaking for the administration but noted his statement "probably does not differ significantly from our national energy policy."

Vice Adm. Hyman G. Rickover testified that Congress must force conservation of energy by stopping exports of energy resources, increasing energy costs as use grows, and taxing big families and the fellow with the "hot car."

Rickover likened the United States in its treatment of energy resources to a man who has found an unexpected sum of money.

"Prudence would have dictated that we regard this as a one-time windfall and not go on a wild spending spree before we had some assurance of finding man-made alternatives once the treasure had been dug out," Rickover said.

But Americans did not seem to care, he said, and the situation has reached the point that national security could be threatened by the world's energy picture.

"Russia, it would seem, has a keener awareness of the fact that access to energy resources is becoming the primary national interest for all industrial countries," Rickover said. "Russia's new naval strength in the Mediterranean poses a very real threat that she might succeed in controlling the Middle East and its oil."

Spanish parliament OK's third development plan

MADRID (UPI)—After several weeks of debate, the Spanish Cortes (Parliament) has approved at committee level the nation's third development plan. The country can now resume its race to catch up with the rest of Western Europe.

To keep everybody on the alert, the government in recent weeks and months has unveiled the details and targets of the plan. It has also published calculations and economic forecasts for the 1975-1980 period when, it is expected, the per capita income ($900 in 1971) will have more than doubled, to $2,100.

Such an increase would put Spain closer to Italy's per capita income and would also provide a good argument when Spain negotiates for full association with the Common Market.

Government targets for the 1972-75 plan call for a 7 per cent annual increase in real terms of the Gross National Product. Private consumption is to move UP by 6.5 per cent per year and public consumption by 5.3 per cent. Imports are to increase by 11 per cent per year and exports by 10 per cent.

In order to achieve these targets, a total of about $45.6 billion will have to be invested during the four-year plan period, including foreign capital investments and credits and public investments amounting to 56.6 per cent more than in the preceding development plan.

African plane crash kills 71

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI)—An East African Airways (EAA) Super VC10 with 118 persons aboard crashed Tuesday in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, killing 71 persons.

The airline has not issued a passenger or crew list, but the spokesman in Nairobi said 45 passengers and two crew survived the noon crash.

The plane—Flight EC720—was on a scheduled run from Nairobi to London via Addis Ababa and Rome. The airline said the plane carried 107 passengers and a crew of 11.

A statement issued by the airline said the plane crashed "as it was taking off from Addis Ababa airport. It is understood the aircraft failed to leave the ground at the end of the runway where it disintegrated and caught fire."

The plane was piloted by Capt. Paddy Vale and had an all-European flight-deck crew, the airline said.

Government spokesman said a team of EAA technical officials left Nairobi for Addis Ababa. Survivors able to travel would be flown back to Nairobi, he said.

In Rome, the Italian television network RAI-TV said three of its staffers survived the crash. They were identified as reporters Italo Moretti and Antonio Leone and technician Mario Piazza.

The network said the men said the plane failed to lift off the runway and crashed down an embankment, splitting in half. (RAI said a fourth Italian was among the survivors.)

EAA is owned jointly by Kenya, Uganda, and Tanzania and has a fleet of five Super VC10s which can carry 148 passengers, the airline said.

Valley Living

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: "ON THE VERGE," who complained because his wife was frigid, gave a good physical description of himself. (Six feet two, well-built, a full head of hair, gray in the temples, good looking.) But he didn't describe the psychological conditions his wife had to live with.

A man who doesn't let his wife make any decisions in their marriage will soon find that he is living with a robot, and robots make very poor bed partners.

I know, because my husband has made all the decisions in our marriage. I have become very angry, and I take my anger out on my husband by not responding to his emotional needs, especially those related to sex.

I am a college graduate with a good mind, but somehow my husband has always smothered and belittled everything I've ever tried to do. I wonder where in the world my husband thinks my head was before I married him?

RESIGNED ROBOT

DEAR ROBOT: You don't say how long you've been married, but if you have resigned yourself to being a "robot" for the rest of your life, your head is not where it's doing you the most good.

DEAR ABBY: Perhaps "ON THE VERGE," that handsome, athletic husband who couldn't get his wife into the bedroom, should evaluate his "game" in the bedroom.

He may have a headful of premature gray hair, play golf, tennis and handball—and still be a complete dud in bed. Even two heads of gray hair wouldn't make up for a nothing performance in bed.

It just might be that 25 years of nothing, nothing, nothing has produced a frigid wife.

Believe me, most frigid wives did not get that way by themselves, and I'll bet "On the Verge's" hunger can't hold a candle to his wife's.

HUNGRY FOR 30 YEARS

DEAR ABBY: I read the letter from "ON THE VERGE," and I got the shock of my life.

It could have been written by my husband, except for the color of his hair and his age. My husband is 33.

I love my husband and have no reason or excuse for treating him this way. I just never felt like going to bed when he did, so I'd stay up and do something else until he'd fall asleep. I never realized that he would get the notion that I was avoiding him.

After reading that husband's letter I realized that if he could be considering looking elsewhere for love, so could mine. If he hasn't already.

My husband's birthday is the last of next month, but he is going to get his gift early. A changed wife!

I just hope and pray I'm not too late. STUPID IN B'HAM

DEAR ABBY: I am tired of reading letters in your column from self-confessed "great" lovers who complain because their wives are frigid.

The sexual prowess of the American male is a myth, perpetuated by men who think they know all there is to know about women.

Your stock answer is, "Talk it over with your mate." Well, forget it.

If a wife says one word to her husband about what arouses her, or what turns her off, he will regard it as a brutal assault on his masculinity. For no American man will admit that he is no good in bed.

There is an old saying, "There are no cold women. Only clumsy men." How true! But it took a Frenchman to say it. After twenty years of marriage, you may sign this wife either "DISGUSTED," or "SLEEPING ALONE IN W. VA."

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 6700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90068. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Gem TOPS meet scheduled in TF

Beverly Burns, Twin Falls, is assisting Mrs. Kramer as co-chairman. Ollimae Armstrong, Twin Falls, is area captain.

O. A. (Gus) Kelker will be speaker for the April 28 convention. Mrs. Kenneth R. Briggs will speak at the April 29 luncheon. Deloris Sims, Twin Falls, state representative, will be present.

Marriage announced

TWIN FALLS — Mr. and Mrs. Carl L. Wambolt reside in Falls.

Bozeman, Mont. following their March marriage at the Devon Lutheran Church, Devon, Mont.

Tim Holland of New York is probably the best combination bridge and golf player in the world. He doesn't play in tournaments, but he can hold his own against almost anyone in either game.

We can't show his golf swing, but we can show him at work in a six-diamond contract at the Regency Whist Club.

He ruffed the heart lead and took stock. The hand was going to be a cinch against reasonable breaks. Could he handle unreasonable ones?

He noted that he wasn't going to reach the green if spades were 5-1, so he approached by cashing the ace and king of spades.

East dropped the queen and Tim ruffed a low spade with dummy's queen of trumps.

Then he cashed his jack and 10 of trumps and East showed out.

It looked as if he were in an impossible lie. There was West with two trumps and Tim held just one in each hand.

He was able to get out any way. He just led his last two spades. If West ruffed the last spade, Tim would over ruff get back to his hand with a club draw the last trump and just lose a club at the finish.

Actually, West checked a club. Now Tim played out two high clubs. Fortunately, West had to follow.

Tim would not have made the hand if West had started with just two clubs.

A Lovelier You

TO SMOOTH LEG COMPLEXION

By Mary Sue Miller

A Lovely writes: The skin on my legs is rough and flaking. After a bath it scuffs off with every stroke of a towel. Could the condition be aggravated by leg make-up? I use one the year around to cover dense areas of spider veins. Your advice, please.

The Answer: Leg or body make-up usually acts to guard the complexion from the elements—cold, wind, sun. Of course you cannot expect miracles of protection when the skin is overexposed to weather or dries from some systemic cause or suffers neglect.

This treatment followed faithfully for several weeks works to smooth and tidy the area.

Thoroughly remove leg make-up; keep at it until every trace of color disappears. For convenience, discontinue make-up during treatment weeks. Semi-opaque stockings will cover spider veins.

Before bathing, dampen legs and gently massage with cream pumice to loosen scuff. Then soak for 10 minutes in a warm tub and wash with dry-skin suds. Once out of the tub, dry with quick rotary motions, massage length of legs with the richest body lotion you can find. Reapply lotion at least once between baths.

If you shave your legs, avoid using pumice cream on the same day. Coat legs with body lotion instead of soap, before shaving with a safety razor. Suitable pre-shave liquids come for electric shavers.

Fewer measures are not resultful. So take all of these.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, APRIL 20, 1972

CARROLL RICHTER'S horoscope

from the Carroll Richter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Morning requires health care, but the afternoon and evening are beautiful for almost anything that you wish to do. Particularly good for big thoughts and deeds. Plans made now can be of real power and importance and most successful — especially in government.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A day when you can understand what bigwigs explain to you and as a result can become more successful in your own field of endeavor. Put in a good day's work and then enjoy amusements you like in p.m. Congenials are in a fine mood.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Plan just how to have more accord with mate, family and show more cooperation than you have in the past. Relenting a little can bring you a world of happiness. Put those fine ideas to work where property is concerned.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Ideal day to state your aims with kin, business allies, and come to a fine understanding. This will make the future better and brighter for all concerned. Save some time for that hobby you like later. Relax in p.m.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Thinking big is important today if you really want to become big and have the success you long have dreamed about. Confering with experts can be most helpful. Learn to budget your money better.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Go after the personal desire that is vital to your wellbeing now. Dress with style and make the right impression on others. The future depends pretty much on your own vision and wisdom. Think logically.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Go after the advice which experts can give you so you can later go ahead with those plans you have in mind. If you follow your hunches, you find they are correct and can be most helpful. Make the evening a happy one with kin.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Much sociability will pay off well now, so be sure to make new and worthwhile contacts as well as going after personal aims is mighty important so lose no time. Pick your friends wisely, though.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You are far better able to gain your aims of both a personal and practical nature now, so be sure to apply yourself enthusiastically. A bigwig can be of great help to you, be sure to contact this person. Relax tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have new ideas and plans to put in operation now. Start early for fine results. Set aside dull routines. Your intuition is working nicely so follow it and get ahead of the other person.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A new attitude is what you need to solve problematical affairs that have seemed difficult in the past. This will get fine results now. Get insurance matters well handled. Avoid some situation that is not to your liking.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) If you are friendly with others, you find you get excellent results with everyone now, particularly with your regular associates. Bring your finest talents before the most prominent persons you know and get their support. Grow.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make your environs more attractive and bright and this will lift your spirits for some time to come. Do something about improving your health as well. Stop putting up with some annoying minor ailment for some silly reason. Think.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY — he or she will be one of those very dynamic young people who can easily get what is desired from others because of the charm and magnetism in the nature, but nonetheless requires both discipline and encouragement if all the great potential is to be realized throughout the lifetime. Work with and for the government is ideal here, regardless of sex, with much success.

Can't Collect Gambling Debt

"There are two times in a man's life when he should not speculate: when he can't afford it, and when he can."

Mark Twain

That gambling debts are legally uncollectable is common knowledge. With this in mind, a client wants to know how much money the big Las Vegas casinos lose every year on wagers. About $8 million is the official estimate, the old pros thereabouts guess double that.

HER PROBLEM in Africa. I refer to the "Born Free" lady named Mrs. Joy Adamson. She was a hippopotamus. They trampled her lawn. So she just rimmed the grass with a little low line of rocks, that's all. Hippopotamuses shuffle. They're averse to stepping over whatever.

INDIANS in the Arizona mountains centuries ago wove cloth out of bird feathers. So says bird feather expert Chet Switwell. But nobody today knows how to do that, nobody. Another of those curious lost arts.

BLONDES

In the Netherlands, where blondes are common, no fix that, say prevalent, beauty parlor operators claim numerous such fair-haired girls now prefer their tresses be a shade of brown. Films both in movie houses and on TV there of late have featured adventurous heroines with brown hair. Said operators credit that fact with the latest tendency in fash.

Q. "ARTHRITIS is a female ailment, no?"

A. That's putting it too strong. Still, among citizens who suffer from the affliction, women outnumber men two to one, true enough.

Q. "LOUIE," you little petunia blossom, how many flowers can you name that originated in China?"

A. Chrysanthemums, let's see, gardenias, wisteria, rhododendrons, azaleas, forsythia, and yes, even roses. Miss any? And knock off that petunia line, by the way.

LETTERS

Collectors disclose that U. S. President of this century who handwrote the fewest letters on White House stationery was John F. Kennedy.

IN PARIS now, prescription eyeglasses with battery powered wipers are selling well, it's reported. ALSO, AMONG parrots, it's the male, not the female, that talks most, surprisingly.

ALREADY pointed out 52 per cent of kangaroo is edible while only 96 per cent of a sheep can be so described. Am asked now how the kangaroo compares with the pig in this matter. Favorable. The meat boys say just 38 per cent of the pig can be eaten.

"IT'S THE author's third novel that's most apt to be a success," says a prominent New York City publisher. "First novel sales are generally low, second novel sales invariably disappointing. In my opinion, the author would do better to start with the third novel, not even bothering to write the first two."

House raising planned northeast of Fairfield

PARADISE — An old fashioned "house raising" will be held this weekend at the Pine area northeast of Fairfield.

The event will be held to help replace a cabin owned by Homer Reed, Twin Falls, which was destroyed by snow about two weeks ago.

Tom Rowland, Twin Falls, who together with Willis Carrie, owner of the Paradise Inn, is spearheading the project, said snow buildup on the roof demolished the summer home.

All building materials will be on the site Saturday and Sunday, but workers are asked to bring tools if they have them. Rowland said all friends of Mr. and Mrs. Reed are invited to attend the house raising. He said snow was probably between eight and nine feet deep when it crashed through the roof of the summer home. The building was a two-bedroom home in the Valentine Subdivision between Paradise and Pine.

Workers this weekend will raise walls and roof for a new cabin and finish work will be done at a later date.

Rowland said Reed, who formerly operated Reed's Body Shop in Twin Falls, suffered a heart attack about a year ago and can do only a limited amount of work. He and his wife have been staying in Rowland's cabin since and have been clearing the cabin site of wreckage.

Sandwiches and coffee will be served on site Saturday and Sunday and at 6 p.m. Sunday a free dinner will be served at the Paradise Inn. A free Coors beer hour will be from 6 to 8 p.m. at the inn for all workers, Rowland said.

Cabins for those who do not have homes in the area can be rented at either the Paradise Inn or at Featherville, Rowland said.

He said only one road into the area is now open but that it is in good shape. Workers from Magic Valley must travel west of Fairfield, past Hill City and take the Wood Creek Road off of Highway 68.

Irish immigrants hear IRA leader in Chicago

By JANNE K. ARONSON CHICAGO (UPI)—Sitting in the VFW hall on the Northwest Side of Chicago, Maurice Conway didn't look like a man far from home.

He was with friends and he had a fat $15,000 check in his pocket to prove it.

He had finished speaking and now, as he sat beside the small stage, children hung around his chair. The men, eager to shake his hand and talk about "the situation," pulled their chairs up near his.

There was O'Malley, O'Sullivan and O'Looney on one side and Gilligan, Reilly and O'Shaughnessy on the other, all talking earnestly of "outlaw" and "repression" in brogues as thick as that of Conway himself.

Five hundred of them, mostly Irish immigrants, had crowded into the hall on a recent afternoon for a rally of Irish Northern Aid.

It was Conway they brought their families to hear, the subject of ballads and their father's stories, a member of the IRA.

Tall, trim and articulate, dressed in a brown suit, Conway did not fit any stereotype of the urban guerrilla.

Nevertheless, at age 35, he is known as one of the best organizers the Irish-Republican

Army has in Ulster.

On Aug. 9, 1971, Conway was a high school physics teacher about to be married. A knock on the door changed everything.

Conway wasn't home when the British troops searched his parent's house in the small town of Coalistind, County Tyrone, looking for him. And now he can't go back, marry his bride or teach his classes.

He is a man "on the run," as they say in Ulster, and 2,000 more Ulster Catholics run with him. Running throughout six Ulster counties, over the border to the Free State and back again, always in hiding, always on guard, always mindful that a slipup could mean internment.

Church raps medical costs

MANHATTAN, Kan. (UPI)—Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said Tuesday older Americans are now spending almost as many dollars on health care as they were before the Medicare program began.

In a statement prepared for delivery before the Kansas Citizens Council on Aging at Kansas City University, Church said part of the problem stems from "almost unchecked medical costs."

He also said administrative decisions had boosted the cost of Medicare to participants while reforms are made.

Earlier, at a university convocation, Church, chairman of the U. S. Senate Special Committee on Aging, urged his audience to face up to an "unhealthy unwillingness to cope with the fact that problems related to aging in this nation will increase markedly within the very near future unless major changes are made in retirement income policy."

Church said any program calling for national compulsory health insurance will encounter similar difficulties unless major reforms are made. Noting the population of older Americans is growing every year, Church added, "clearly, we must make major adjustments if we are to head off a compounding of today's problems and, as is so often the case, today's despair."

Naval ships increasing off Vietnam

By DONALD A. DAVIS
SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. Navy ships have gathered at the gun line off Vietnam in an armada which is now among the largest ever used in Indochina. And it still is growing.

At present there are four aircraft carriers, at least 10 destroyers and two big cruisers prowling the deep waters of the South China Sea and the Gulf of Tonkin. They are backed by numerous support ships that bring them everything from mail to ammunition at sea.

More ships are steaming into the area to join the fleet as it is deployed to pound targets "on the beach" and help battle the North Vietnamese invasion across the Demilitarized Zone.

The five-inch cannons of the destroyers, called the "Greyhounds of the fleet," join the bigger guns of the cruisers Chicago and Oklahoma City to blast targets far inland.

But the main Navy punch comes from the hundreds of planes of the "bird farms"—Navy lingo for aircraft carriers. The hundreds of aircraft, which catapult from the canted decks and can fly anywhere in Vietnam to hit Communist targets.

Aircraft from the carriers have been in raids from north of the Demilitarized Zone to the Mekong Delta at the other end of South Vietnam since the beginning of the offensive. The four carriers on station at present are the Kitty Hawk, Constellation, Coral Sea, and Hancock—can field 200 frontline jet fighter-bombers on any day. Their sister carriers Midway and Saratoga are on the way over to furnish another 100 strike aircraft.

Another covey of destroyers are also reported to have left U.S. ports to join the gun line off the coast of Vietnam.

It is on the gun line that the warships park and, guided by spotters, fire their heavy shells at targets ashore.

During normal weeks in the past, the ships have been almost immune from the fighting—but now the Communists are taking shots at the ships. It is no longer a one-way war for the "snuffles" (sailors) aboard the sleek grey destroyers as they hug the coastline to increase their range.

The U.S. warships handle the bombardment role because the Vietnamese Navy is made up primarily of fast, small boats for use in the maze of inland waterways, and cargo craft.

Most of the intricate coordinates supplied to the ships are given out by pilots flying above target areas. Their information is fed into a ship's gunfire control room, where specialists hunch over radar scopes and mark targets on huge plastic-covered maps. The positions are doublechecked on the bridge of the ship before the salvos are fired from the guns, which are kept level by the use of a gyroscopic stabilized platform.

Agency changes on walkaways

COEUR D'ALENE (UPI)—The Idaho Division of Mental Health has changed its procedures about walkaways from the state's mental hospitals because of complaints from Kootenai County officials.

Jack Steneck, director of the division of mental health, said, "We can't stop walkaways but we can improve communication when incidents occur at our state mental health facilities."

The complaints from Kootenai County sheriff Stan Johnson and Prosecutor Gary Haman occurred recently following the escape from State Hospital South of Donald Otis Hodges, 51, Catalod. Hodges had been ruled insane at the time he killed a man at the Floyd Runge ranch and kidnapped the murdered man's wife and another woman about three years ago.

He escaped from the state hospital late last month and Johnson was not notified of the escape until several days later. Harhan said four of the last five persons committed to state mental hospitals from Kootenai County during the past two years had walked out of the facilities because of poor security and two of them are still at large including Hodges.

Steneck said the division of Mental Health has instituted a policy consisting of five telephone calls to be made as soon as a person escapes.

He said the first would go to local law enforcement officers, the second to the sheriff of the county which committed the person, the third to the judge which committed the person, the fourth to the mental health center in the region in which the hospital is located, and the fifth to the division of Mental Health Headquarters in Boise.

Tax firm aide asks standards

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The head of the nation's largest tax preparation service today urged Congress to require people in his business to be registered with the government and to adhere to other professional standards.

"Consumers need protection from abuses by some tax preparation services," said Henry W. Bloch, president of H & R Block Inc., a firm which did $90 million worth of business last year.

"This is one of the few industries you need practically no money to enter," he said. "There's nothing to prevent a 12 year old from making out a tax return."

In testimony prepared for the House subcommittee on legal and monetary affairs, which is considering legislation dealing with tax preparers, Bloch took exception to the statement printed on the front of this year's tax returns, quoting Internal Revenue Service Commissioner Jonnie M. Walters.

The message said "Most American taxpayers can make their own tax return for 1971." But Bloch said accountants and lawyers disagree with that, and he considered it an "ill-considered statement."

"I have always advocated that taxes, in order to be equitable, must be complex," he said. "Further, many Americans prefer to pay someone to prepare their returns even though by careful study of the instructions they could manage their own."

He said the growth of his own business showed that Americans want such a service and any legislation governing it should "not be unduly restrictive or so prejudicial" as to limit its development.

Specifically, he said legislation should set a standard of competence for tax preparers by specifying their training, spell out financial standards for the firms in the business, prohibit false or misleading advertising, and require registration to make sure the standards are complied with.

He also suggested that the Internal Revenue Service be given authority to obtain injunctions against firms which prepare false or fraudulent returns.

Demo Sanford proposes abolition of cabinet

CAMPAIGN '72
Dark Horse Terry Sanford would get rid of the cabinet

By NANCY BENTSON
DURHAM, N.C. (UPI)—As governor of North Carolina, Terry Sanford ushered in the "New South," and as President he would overhaul the federal government, abolish the cabinet and appoint four deputy presidents.

The Duke University president, now a month into a Democratic presidential campaign that's a long shot at best, was a maverick among segregationist governors of the South in the early '60s, and would follow suit as president.

Sanford outlined his plans to abolish an "ineffective" cabinet and appoint four powerful deputies in an interview at his home.

After revamping the executive department, Sanford said, he would move the country toward a "creative federalism" in which there would be a strong federal government, but state and local governments would have a voice in the planning and evaluation of federally-funded programs.

The object would be to put government back "where people can influence it."

This, Sanford said, is one reason he decided last month to respond to a student petition drive and run for president. He entered North Carolina's presidential primary, intends to enter one in the north, and is courting delegate votes in all 50 states, banking on the slender hope that the Democratic convention will "deadlock" and turn to him for the nomination.

"I didn't get into the race to stop Wallace, stop Muskie, stop McGovern, or anybody else," Sanford said. "I got in because I want to be President of the United States, because I can do some things that nobody else has talked about and nobody else has tried to do."

Most candidates, Sanford said, share the general concepts of what the country should be. "But I don't think anybody else is talking about how you get there."

"It's so easy to talk about rats in the ghettos, slums, lack of transportation and all of these priorities the nation has," Sanford said. "I think fundamentally we've got to make the government work before we can do any of these things."

"It doesn't work, so how do we put it in shape so it does work? I think we restructure the national government and I think we revitalize the federalist concept."

He is thinking of a "change in the philosophy of national government as it has grown up over the past 100 or so years where we have all kinds of little departments and bureaus and agencies looking out for a little piece of the problem or a little special interest or a little purpose that doesn't concern itself with the overall purpose of national government."

"The change in philosophy would be a change to about four major departments in government concerned with the purposes in government as distinguished from all of those special or particular interests and objectives."

The four departments could be organized around four major thrusts—human resources, natural resources, economic development and community development. The heads of the departments would be called deputy presidents and would have "the kind of authority needed to run the domestic side of government."

"You would do away with the cabinet as such," Sanford said. "Because the cabinet right now, as you know, hasn't really had much influence. Walter Hickel (former secretary of interior) of course, complained he couldn't even get to see the President."

"The president could see these four people and furthermore, if you organized it properly, they could do what's needed to be done to implement programs and to plan projects that dealt with problems whereas now it's impossible for the president to run the domestic side of government."

He said he would retain the posts of secretary of state, secretary of defense, attorney general and the secretary of treasury.

The changes, he said, would be "drastic" but "I think they're in the spirit of the American revolution. I think we started out being innovative, we have tended to be innovative, flexible, moving with the times. We never did lock in one approach."

"I don't think it would be anything as radical as the change of the new deal days but I think it would be carefully effective change with the idea of making our government respond to us," he said. "In a way, you might say we're taking government back away from the people who have held it, and we're putting it back where people can influence it."

As governor of North Carolina from 1961-65, Sanford, a strong and early backer of John F. Kennedy, avoided the race-baiting posture of many other Southern governors and established an official state agency to work for better race relations.

He developed what he has called the nation's first state anti-poverty program, and led the way to an increase in public school budgets by 50 per cent and university and college budgets by 70 per cent.

Sanford's entry in the North Carolina primary took much of the steam out of the campaigns of several Democratic hopefuls, and the Tar Heel primary at this point appears a race between Sanford and Alabama Gov. George Wallace.

Sanford calls himself a "Federalist in the Jeffersonian tradition," and wants a strong federal government but more participation by the governments of the states.

"Right now, if you wanted to involve governors and mayors, county officers and the like, there's no way you can do it because there is no one focal point in Washington where you can bring people to talk about broad policy and future plans. "I think it would be a much simpler process for one of these four people to sit down with half a dozen governors because he could do something with the information he gets."

After the executive branch was restructured, Sanford said, human resources would become the top priority area in his administration.

"I think it's high priority that we do things with housing, education, transportation, the quality of life in the cities, relocation or location of industries so that you help shape what now is shaped without any influence, the population centers.
